Haggerty Award

The Lt. Frank J. Haggerty Award is presented annually by the National Invitation Tournament and the Metropolitan Basketball Writers Association. The award, which is named for the co-captain of the 1939-40 St. John's basketball team, is given to the top basketball player in the metropolitan area.

The Haggerty Award has been awarded annually since 1936, when it was given to LIU's Jules Bender. The Blackbirds have had seven athletes honored with the award during its 78-year history, the third-most of any school.

NCAA Tournament History

Long Island University's storied basketball history includes four trips to the NCAA Division I Tournament. The Blackbirds earned their first trip to the NCAA Tournament by defeating Wagner, Fordham and Iona to capture the 1981 ECAC Metropolitan playoffs. LIU entered the tournament as a 12 seed and was led by Riley Clarida and Eric Short. In the first round LIU met fifth-seeded Virginia Commonwealth in Oklahoma City and fell to the Rams, 85-69.

Led by Carey Scurry, the nation's leading rebounder, the 1983-84 Blackbirds posted a 20-11 record and made the school's second trip to the NCAA Tournament. LIU entered the tournament with a six-game win streak before falling to Northeastern, 90-87, in the preliminary round in Philadelphia.

The Blackbirds returned to the tournament in 1997 with the nation's highest-scoring offense and a final record of 21-9. LIU played a strong schedule and boasted an upset of St. John's, 76-73, in the season-opener, as well as the nation's leading scorer in Charles Jones who averaged 30.1 points per game. The Blackbirds dropped a hard-fought 101-91 decision to fourth-seeded Villanova in the first round in Winston-Salem, N.C.

Sporting a nation's-best 13-game win streak and an offense that ranked fourth in the country, Long Island returned to the NCAA Tournament with a second round matchup against second-seeded North Carolina. In an exciting, up-and-down contest, the Blackbirds hung with the Tar Heels before falling, 102-87. LIU concluded the year with a 27-6 record - its most wins in over 70 seasons.

NIT Tournament History

Under the tutelage of Clair Bee, LIU earned seven National Invitation Tournament berths. Beginning in 1938 the Blackbirds made five consecutive trips to the tournament. The 1939 team capped an undefeated season by winning LIU's first championship with a 44-32 win over Loyola-Chicago. The title game featured the only meeting in major-college history between two unbeaten teams in a national postseason tournament. The Blackbirds captured their second NIT crown in 1941. In the semifinals, LIU snapped Seton Hall's 42-game win streak with a 49-26 win. The Blackbirds defeated Ohio, 56-42 in the title game. LIU was heavily favored to win its third NIT in five years in 1942, but suffered a first round defeat by West Virginia. LIU also earned NIT berths in 1947 and 1950, but fell to Kentucky and Syracuse in the first-round both times, respectively.

The 1968 squad entered the NIT as the top-ranked small college team in the country and advanced to the quarterfinals before falling 62-60 to Notre Dame. LIU made return trips to the NIT in 1982, and most recently, 1998. The Blackbirds fell to Dayton 95-92 in their last NIT trip.

* - NIT Champions

Clair Francis Bee (1896-1983)

Clair Bee coached basketball at Long Island University and Rider University for a total of 21 years, compiling a career record of 412-87. His .826 winning percentage is the highest of any coach in NCAA history. In 18 seasons at LIU he posted a 360-80 mark, including undefeated seasons in 1935-36 (25-0) and 1938-39 (23-0). In seven postseason trips to the NIT, he led the Blackbirds to championships in 1939 and 1941.

The Grafton, W. Va., native remains the fastest coach in Division I history to reach 200 and 300 wins. A devoted teacher of the game, he also helped LIU post a 43-game winning streak, which was an NCAA record at the time.

By the time he left coaching in the 1950's, Bee had already begun writing the Chip Hilton series, which is considered the top sports fiction series ever written. In 1967, he was inducted into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass., but his coaching influence remains intact today. He is credited with developing the 1-3-1 zone defense, the three-second rule and advocating the adoption of the NBA's 24-second shot clock.

In February 2000, he was inducted with the inaugural class of the LIU Athletics Hall of Fame. His daughter, Cindy Farley, was on hand to accept the honor posthumously for him.

The Coach Clair Bee and Chip Hilton Awards were created by Chip Hilton Sports and the NCAA Foundation in 1996 as a way to honor the memory of Clair Bee, who had a great impact as a coach, administrator, innovator and teacher. The awards promote positive character in basketball, which were hallmarks of Bee and his teams.

The Coach Clair Bee Award honors the active Division I men's basketball coach who made the most significant positive contribution to his sport during the preceding year. The winner reflects the character and professional qualities of Bee, a Hall of Fame coach whom many consider the best technical basketball coach in history and a man who cared deeply about his players' well-being. The criteria for the award involves actions that inspire, motivate, coach and educate their teams to achieve their fullest potential and demonstrate outstanding character.

The Chip Hilton Award is given in recognition of a college player who meets the competitive and ethical standards that were the theme of the 24-book Chip Hilton series. Criteria for the award involves athletic skill, team spirit, personal discipline and integrity, respect of university and athletic authority, service to others, team leadership and accountability to family, coaches and the university.

The selection committee features some of the most respected names in college basketball, including former coaches Dean Smith, Dave Gavitt, Pete Newill and Bobby Knight and TV commentators Billy Packer, Jay Bilas and Dick Vitale. The awards have honored coaches and players from across the basketball landscape such as Jim Phelan of Mount St. Mary's and Duke's Mike Krzyzewski, as well as Tim Duncan from Wake Forest and Charles Jenkins of Hofstra University.
